Dear Friends,

There is a growing body of research on creativity – what it is and how to cultivate it. I believe the answer is actually quite simple. Everyone has creative capacities and creativity blossoms when people are encouraged to try new things and approach challenges in ways that are supportive and forgiving. When we are allowed to try, even though we might fail, incredible things can happen.

Creativity is often associated with artistic ability; however, it is more than that. It is about divergent thinking and coming up with new ways of addressing age old problems. It is about taking risks and developing alternative solutions just to see if they work. It is about continually working towards perfection after multiple failures. Certainly, many artists are highly creative, but equally as many people exhibit creativity in the workplace as employees, in schools as students, in the community as advocates, and at home in their roles as parents and caregivers. People from all walks of life exhibit creativity daily, often without seeing themselves as creative.

At CSI, we are in the business of helping people try new things so that they can explore their creative capacities. Whether it is through an adult enrichment watercolor class or a college biology class, our goal is to present opportunities for personal growth and development. I encourage you to pursue the offerings in this catalog and see if anything sparks your interest. Take a chance. You never know where it may lead.

Sincerely,
Hallie Star, M.A.

LEGAL SEMINARS
FOR SENIORS

“Making Sure Your Desires are Followed: Advance Directives and Powers of Attorney for Seniors”

Durable Financial Powers of Attorney are the building blocks of any estate plan. Learn what Idaho law says about their use and what powers you can and should give your agent. Idaho is in a time of transition with respect to Advance Directives, which include documents you can use to express your health care choices and desires, such as a living will or POST. Learn about health care surrogates (or agents) under a health care power of attorney. Learn what end of life health choices you can make, how to make sure that doctors and other health care providers respect those choices and who is best to act for you if you cannot act for yourself.

“Estate Planning for Seniors: Planning for Life, Not Just Death”

Most traditional estate planning centers on transferring your assets after your death. However, we are living longer than we ever have and more and more seniors are becoming concerned about life events that must be planned for, instead of focusing solely on what happens to our assets after death. Often the planning that we should be doing, such as planning for a surviving spouse, planning to deal with long term care issues, planning to help kids or grandkids get a head start, gets ignored by estate planners who are focused only on death. Learn about using powers of attorneys, wills and other tools to plan for life, not just death.

Nonprofit Education Initiative to support capacity-building in nonprofit organizations in central Idaho

$25 for each session.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 22, 2015
Nell Edgington of Social Velocity, Austin, TX.

1:00-5:00 p.m. Messaging Impact
Philanthropy is changing. More and more donors are interested in funding organizations that can demonstrate impact or change over time, as opposed to organizations that only talk about their needs. Learn how to create your nonprofit’s impact message to encourage more donors to invest in the long-term work of your organization. Section code: XBUS 006 B04 Room 200

THURSDAY, MARCH 5, 2015
Jan McGowan, Jan McGowan Consulting, Sisters, Or.

1:00-5:00 p.m. Volunteer Recruitment and Management
Volunteers are the lifeblood of many nonprofits, extending our ability to provide services effectively. How do we find, engage, and manage volunteers to best meet our needs and those of the volunteer? This interactive training will focus on both episodic and long-term volunteers (who are scheduled to do a particular job on an ongoing basis), and developing a volunteer program that accommodates either or both types. Section code: XBUS 006 B05 Room 200

IMMIGRATION LAW INFORMATION NIGHT
This free seminar is designed for students and community members and will be presented by local attorneys, Amanda Breen, J.D. and Adam King, J.D., and focus on President Obama’s two new executive actions: Deferred Action for Parents (“DAP”), and the expansion of Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals (“DACA”). Breen and King will provide details on how to qualify for the programs, as well as the documentary evidence that applicants will need to gather in order to apply. They will also discuss prospects for future immigration reform that will cover more people, and the unlawful actions of notarios. Near the end, we will include a general question and answer session about immigration.

Presenters: Amanda Breen, J.D. and Adam King, J.D.
