The Lion and The Elephant With Dr. Russ Tremayne

Senator Frank Church's childhood idol was Senator William Borah, who served as a United States Senator from Idaho from 1907 to 1940. Both Church, who served as a US Senator from 1957 to 1981, and Borah were involved in the shaping of 20th century American Foreign Policy. Professor Tremayne will survey the careers of both men and examine the major foreign policy issues of their time — including World Wars I and II, the Cuban Revolution, and the Panama Canal Treaty.

Professor Tremayne has been teaching history for 31 years, including a long tenure at the College of Southern Idaho. He has a BA and Master's degree from Boise State University and a PhD from University of Washington, where he wrote his dissertation on Senator Frank Church. Professor Tremayne, former professor of the year and Phi Theta Kappa advisor of the year, is a co-founder of Preservation Twin Falls and volunteers for many historical projects throughout the Magic Valley. Each year, he is instrumental in presenting the annual CSI Civil Liberties Symposium.

Stoneboys, Scotsmen and Volcanism at Craters of the Moon With Lisa Cresswell & Dave Freiberg

Cresswell will present a vivid history of the Snake River Plain and Craters of the Moon National Monument, based on the results of an oral history project conducted for the Craters of the Moon. The project included interviews with area ranchers and herders, as well as historical research on the early Euro-American use of the Monument and its area. Freiberg will be discussing basic volcanology, or, how a volcano works in five minutes or less, and the volcanic history of the area.

Lisa Cresswell is a graduate of Idaho State University with a Master's degree in Anthropology. She has been the Shoshone Field Office archaeologist for 13 years.

David Freiberg is the Outdoor Recreation Specialist for BLM at Craters of the Moon National Monument and the Shoshone Field Office for over ten years. Freiberg holds a BA from the University of Northern Iowa and an MS from the University of Montana. He grew up among the corn and bean fields of Iowa, and worked as an agricultural industry journalist and editor before selling everything and moving west in search of volcanoes and mountains.

Coming December 2012: The End of the World With Jim Woods

THE END IS NEAR! In fact, it will happen on December 21, 2012! We know this because the ancient Maya predicted this date and their calendar has proven to be highly accurate. WRONG! This is an important date on the ancient Maya calendar, but it was never predicted as the end of time. There will be a flurry of news about this date over the coming months. Learn what is behind this rumor and what the modern Maya and archaeologists have to say about it.

Jim Woods is a Professor of Anthropology at CSI. His studies of the ancient Maya started while in high school, when he worked for Norman Herrett and had access to the famed Herrett Collection of Mesoamerican Artifacts. Woods earned his MA from Idaho State University in Anthropology in 1987. His first fieldwork in the Maya area was in 1992 where he studied ancient Maya stone working and architecture. Woods was the Director of the Herrett Center from 1980 until 2009. He is on the Idaho Humanities Council Speakers Bureau, and was awarded the Outstanding Achievement in the Humanities in 1998 by the IHC and a Professional Achievement Award, College of Arts & Sciences, Idaho State University in 2006.
